The July 2011 I/A Forum will feature an update by David Kail, of DVC, on a new program to train potential and current employees to be Industrial Maintenance Machinist/Mechanics (IMMM) for local industry. DVC, Solano College, and Laney College are collaborating on the IMMM program to avoid duplication of classes at the colleges and to provide students with academic options as they prepare for these excellent careers. IMMM workers repair and maintain industrial processing equipment such as pumps, compressors, heat exchangers, and many more pieces of equipment in refineries, chemical plants, water/waste water treatment facilities, power production units, and many other related industries. Over the past couple of decades these have been the most challenging positions to fill for industry.
