The Industrial Association is fortunate to have Sarah McIlroy, Principal with Stantec Consulting and Michelle Rembaum-Fox, Engineering Geologist with the Regional Water Quality Control Board (RWQCB) as our May Forum Speakers.

Discussion Will Be: The New Stormwater Regulation.

Sarah McIlroy is a principal with Stantec Consulting in Sacramento. Sarah has 20 years of experience in the environmental engineering and consulting field. She is a professional engineer with a strong environmental compliance background who provides both engineering and environmental services. The combination of science and engineering provides her the insight to move projects forward with viable solutions. Her wide range of experience includes municipal storm drainage master planning, drainage analysis, stormwater quality, and environmental assessment. Her work has included extensive fieldwork and analysis on water samples to investigate sources of pollution. Sarah has a Master's degree in civil and environmental engineering from the University of Utah and a Bachelor's degree in mathematics from DePauw University.

Michelle Rembaum-Fox has worked with the RWQCB for 17 years, the last 7 in the Watershed Division as an Inspector for both the NPDES General Permit for Discharges of Stormwater Associated with Industrial and Construction Activities. Prior to that she was a Project Manager in the Toxic Cleanup Division overseeing investigations and cleanups of contaminated soil and groundwater and she also worked at the Department of Toxic Substance Control (DTSC) for 13 years as a Project Manager overseeing investigations, cleanups and redevelopment projects.
