Mr. Gary Darling, General Manager of Delta Diablo sanitation District (DDSD), has a long and varied career in water management and environmental stewardship, including overseeing the environmental review for the $650M Freeport water project on the Sacramento River and as program manager on the $450M Los Vaqueros Reservoir project. DDSD is the lead agency for several successful regional resource recovery coalitions, including the Western Recycled Water Coalition, a 21 member collaboration of cities, water and wastewater districts, and investor owned water utilities. Who since 2009 has secured $38M in federal funding plus $114M in state and local funding to build eight recycling projects and launch feasibility studies for 14 more in the San Francisco Bay Area. As a Board member of the East Bay Leadership Council, and Water Technology Cluster Chair of the Diablo Innovation Alliance, Mr. Darling is working to position our region as a leading global center for innovation, linking research, manufacturing and the workforce to create a more sustainable regional economy. Mr. Darling brings a perspective of how successful private/public collaborations which leverage regional assets and strengths can create a sustainable economic base for Contra Costa County.
